

DAILY PLANET

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS

Thursday, August 21

1997

Armstrong, 'Communicate Knowledge' Team Here Thurs.

The NASA Communicate Knowledge Process Improvement Team is visiting Marshall Thursday. The group is led by Spence Armstrong, associate administrator for Human Resources and Education. The team is visiting NASA field centers to identify ways to improve the process for communicating the results of NASA's research efforts to the communities it serves.

Marshall Post-POP Fish Fry
4:30 p.m.
Thurs. at the Picnic Pavilion

Mir Mission Update 10:15 a.m. Fri. On NASA TV

EG&G Chosen to Provide Center Operations Support Services

EG&G Alabama, Inc., a division of EG&G, Inc., of Cocoa, Fla., has been awarded a contract by Marshall to provide center operations support services. The contract is for a period of up to five years, beginning Sept. 1, 1997. If all options are exercised, it could be worth $77.8 million. Services to be provided under the contract include operations, maintenance, renovations, modifications, construction and environmental support, previously performed by BAMSI.

American Express Gives Travel Overview 1 p.m. Mon. in Morris

American Express has been awarded the NASA-wide travel contract and will begin providing travel services to Marshall on Sept. 2. Representatives of American Express will present an overview of travel services 1 - 2:30 p.m. on Monday in Morris Auditorium.

Rebroadcast of Employee Information Update 9 a.m. Fri. on Closed-Circuit TV